Gen. Mesro Azgapetain, Appearing Before Rotarians, Declares Russian Money Presses Working Overtime.

Memphians who have been training nd taking correspondence courses i Bolshevism missed a splendid oppor unity Tuesday to learn from a firsthand witness just how they should deport themselves in order to be eligible to full fellowship in the Bolshevik to full fellowship in the Boishevik party.

As it was, not a single Boisheviki heard the address of Gen. Mesro Azgapetian, whose name will readily suggest that he was not a member of the A. E. F. He spoke before the Rotary club at the noonday luncheon and charmed his audience with his eloquence and left the conviction that he knew what he was talking about.

Gen. Azgapetian (who will hereafter in this articles be referred to as "he") was educated in nearly all the colleges in Europe and America, held a commission in the Persian army and fought with the Russian army, or whatever a Russian army is supposed to do. His strongest appeal was to America to save the Armenians from the Turk and his ideas were strikingly in accord with those expressed in all parts of the civillzed world.

He told of the splendid history of the Armenians, their ancient and honorable history and declared that Mohamme.

trmenians, their ancient and honorable listory, and declared that Mohamme-lanism, wherever it spreads, leaves a blight upon a nation and a people. Word Means Wildness.

Bolshevism, he told his audience in meaking of his experience in Russia, is an exaggerated form of American octalism lacking its intelligence and its direction. Bolshevism, he added, was a name given to the organization, meaning wildness, and it is no miswas a name given to the vices and the meaning wildness, and it is no misnomer.

The achievements of the Bolshevists, he said, had proved remarkable in revolutionizing Russia. When Kerensky fell a victim to his incedinate ambition, the Bolshevists began to say among them selves. Why should the president of a bank receive more pay than the man who fires the bank furnace? Why should the president of the railroad receive more pay and work shorter hours than the man who mends the road bed? What these people own is the result of our labor, so we shall divide it among ourselves. If we do not want it or can not has it, we shall destroy it."

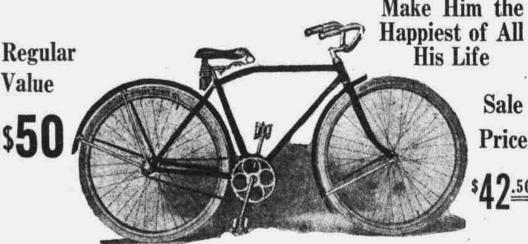

So the Bolsheviki changed the order of things. The street car conductors were paid $1,000 a month or $12,000 a year. The plain laborers are the ones, he said, who principally patronized the street cars in Petrograd and the burden fell upon them to pay the increased fare and their wages went up. wages went up

Work Only Few Hours. So, he continued to relate, they counseled among themselves again and said: "We have been working 12 or 11 hours a day for small wage so we shall hereafter work eight or six hours if it is difficult work. That was the official rule but the actual time given to work was only three to four hours." hours.

According to the speaker the printing presses that produce Russian currency are the only things that work regularly and they work overtime. He told of a friend who sold an alarm clock that he bought in the United States for $1 to a peasant for $100 To addition to being a dollar clock, it didn't run.

run.
The result, according to the sneaker is that scarcely anybody in Russis works any more. Money is carried around in bundles. There is very little food to be bought and mighty little produced.

MISS ERSKINE ISSUES BOOKLET OF POEMS

Memphis has a new claimant to authorship in the realm of poetry. Miss Loulie Gordon Erskine has just had issued from a local press a small volume of verse, entitled "Flowers of Remembrance." The book is attractively bound in gray, and contains 17 poems on the subject of love—a theme which never grows old. It is inscribed: "To Them That Remember." In dedicating her poems to every heart which cherishes a memory Miss Erskine has touched a sympathetic chord, and touches upon little memories in a way that reveals the author's knowledge of the average human being's deepest emotions.

Miss Erskine is well known, having emotions.

Miss Erskine is well known, having heen reared and educated here and having participated in the literary and social life of the city since girlhood. Her father, Dr. Alexander Erskine, was a much loved physician who endeared himself to Memphis through his unselfish service during the yellow fever epidemics. Miss Erskine is at present filling the position of private secretary to the superintendent of the city schools Prof. Warton S. Jones.
